FCC SEEKS PUBLIC COMMENT ON REPORT ON PROCESS REFORM

GN Docket No. 14-25

COMMENTS DUE: March 31, 2014

The Federal Communications Commission (Commission) today released to the public a Report on FCC Process Reform (Report). The Report was prepared by a staff working group led by Diane Cornell, Special Counsel to Chairman Tom Wheeler, and includes a comprehensive list of the group's proposed recommendations for process reform at the Commission. With this Public Notice, the Commission formally solicits public comment on the Report on Process Reform and the proposed recommendations contained in the Report.

The Report seeks to further the goal of having the agency operate in the most effective, efficient and transparent way possible. It examines the agency's internal operations with the aim of improving the overall functioning of the agency and its service to the public. Based on both internal and external suggestions for process reform, the Report identifies initial steps in what will be an ongoing process of reexamining, and revising, the way the Commission does its work.

The Report proposes more than 150 process reform recommendations covering a wide range of specific topics. These recommendations, if implemented, would enable the Commission to work faster, smarter, more efficiently, more transparently, and more inclusively. The Report includes recommendations to advance the following goals:

- Improving the efficiency and effectiveness of the FCC's decision-making process by streamlining the internal FCC review process, improving tracking accountability, and reducing backlogs;
- Processing items before the agency more quickly and more transparently by accelerating the overall speed of disposal of both routine and more complex matters, and ensuring the public is provided more information regarding the status of particular matters;
- Streamlining agency processes and data collections, including reworking essential processes such as licensing activities, internal distribution and release procedures, handling of informal consumer complaints, compliance with statutory requirements such as the Paperwork Reduction Act, and examining the FCC's data collection practices to lessen burdens where possible, while ensuring the agency's data collection practices are effectively tailored to evolving market conditions;

- Eliminating or streamlining outdated rules that are candidates for modification or elimination as a result of marketplace or technology changes that render the rules no longer necessary in the public interest;
- Improving interactions with external stakeholders by enhancing the FCC's public outreach and transparency, exploring innovative mechanisms for developing policy proposals, and updating the drafting process for policy documents;
- Maximizing the Commission's tools and resources by ensuring effective internal communications, human resource management, and training; and
- Modernizing the Commission's information technology infrastructure to improve its website functionality, data management, and tracking capability.
